We employ a marketing automation software technology called Web Beacons from www.act-on.com to track and in some cases, recognize visitors to our website. This helps us to continually improve the quality and relevance of our sales and marketing processes by understanding which pages, content or areas of our business are most engaged by different segments of visitors. Web beacons are tiny graphics with a unique identifier, which function similarly to cookies, but are not stored on a user's computer hard drive as with cookies, but instead are embedded invisibly on website pages or in emails. These help us to understand which of our HTML-based emails have been opened by recipients which enables us to analyze and continually improve the effectiveness, relevance and suitability of marketing communications and campaigns engaged by different customer segments. The technology can then enable us to tie the engagement information from emails and website visits with some customers' non-sensitive information such as name, email address and company.
